The main slates were rolled out over the last two weeks but the 2015 Sundance Film Festival isn't done just yet offering a few surprises. Just over a month before Park City becomes Hollywood North, the Robert Redford founded fest today unveiled a couple more premieres and New Frontier installations plus the second year slate for Sundance Kids. Among those unveiled today is the world premiere Salt Lake City gala of the Redford, Nick Nolte and Emma Thompson starrer A Walk In The Woods. And, of course, this being Sundance, there is another film with James Franco on the offering with True Story with Felicity Jones and Jonah Hill. Check out the full list of SFF additions, including what looks like a very interesting look at the Reese Witherspoon and Laura Dern starrer Wild, below.

With the fest running from January 22 to February 1, Deadline's co-Editor-in-Chief, and myself Film Mike Fleming Jr will be covering Sundance as we have in years past. This looks like it's going to be a good one indeed.

PREMIERES

A Walk in the Woods / U.S.A. (Director: Ken Kwapis, Screenwriters: Rick Kerb, Bill Holderman) — An aging travel writer sets out to hike the 2,100-mile Appalachian Trail with a long-estranged high school buddy. Along the way, the duo face off with each other, nature, and an eccentric assortment of characters. Together, they learn that some roads are better left untraveled. Cast: Robert Redford, Nick Nolte, Emma Thompson, Mary Steenburgen, Nick Offerman, Kristen Schaal. World Premiere. SALT LAKE CITY GALA FILM
